

Contact:

Pam Holland

Somerset Inn Director of Sales and Marketing

248-643-7800 Office

248-643-2296 Fax

pholland@somersetinn.com

Somerset Inn Remodels Conference and Banquet Facilities

Troy, MI – June 29, 2006 – Somerset Inn, an upscale hotel and conference center located in Troy, is continuing its series of renovations throughout the hotel with the remodeling of the conference and banquet facilities to provide its guests with inviting, yet sophisticated meeting and event spaces.

“Our primary goal is to offer facilities that provide a perfect atmosphere for any corporate or social function,” explains Pam Holland, Somerset Inn’s Director of Sales and Marketing. “Our new interior design is chic, modish, and elegant - creating a look and feel that is both professional for corporate events, as well as inviting for a bride looking to book the perfect spot for her wedding.”

According to Holland, the most unique feature of Somerset Inn’s new banquet and conference room interior is the carpeting. “We wanted something that was unusual and unlike standard hotel carpeting. Our design combines the various shapes, patterns, and colors seen throughout the hotel lobby, guestrooms, and suites to create a distinctive, yet contemporary and clean look,” she added.

Somerset Inn’s renovations are the final touch to a series of remodeling initiatives taking place throughout the Inn, which began in the guestrooms and luxury suites, and continued garden patio and foyer areas. Finishing touches are currently being added to the meeting space and banquet facilities, including the Grand Ballroom, which include new carpet and wall coverings provided by Jennifer Taylor. They are expected to be completed in July.

Somerset Inn is a luxury hotel and conference center located just off I-75 on Big Beaver Road in Troy, MI. The Inn offers 250 elegant guestrooms and suites, as well as 13 meeting and event rooms, including the Grand Ballroom. It was founded in 1973 and has since won several Best of Troy Awards for their continual growth and success. For more information about Somerset Inn and its services, please contact Pam Holland at pholland@somersetinn.com or visit www.somersetinn.com.

###